Eva Ng Files to Run for the Office of Mayor of Saint Paul,
And Challenges Chris Coleman to Serve 4-Year Term

Saint Paul, Minnesota, July 21, 2009. Eva Ng, a 50-year old troubleshooter, has a vision to restore economic health to the City of Saint Paul. Ng's plan includes working with existing businesses to grow jobs, developing a business advisory council to identify new opportunities for Saint Paul, showcasing and marketing Saint Paul to prospective businesses from coast to coast, re-vitalizing neighborhoods, and improving government efficiency and quality of service to Saint Paul residents.

Eva is of Chinese descent, born to parents who escaped communist China as orphans. Eva's family moved to the United States when she was 10 years old. Eva and her husband have lived in the Saint Paul metropolitan area for the past 12 years.

Eva has had a 30-year business career as a turnaround consultant, and most recently as CEO of Blanda, Inc. Eva has no aspirations to be a career politician, but rather to use her life skills to ensure that Saint Paul survives and thrives in these difficult times. Eva has received high marks from her peers in the business community for her innovation and responsiveness and will bring those skills and her love for Saint Paul to work for the people of Saint Paul.

Eva is firm in her commitment to the people of Saint Paul. As evidence of her commitment, Eva has pledged (see attached) that, should she be elected, she will serve out her full term as Mayor without campaigning or seeking appointment to higher office. Eva has respectfully requested via certified letter to incumbent Chris Coleman that he commit to do the same. With property taxes soaring and businesses fleeing, Eva believes strongly that Saint Paul deserves a full time mayor.
